Road to PAID
From Houston, Nick knew he wanted to go the engineering route at Texas A&M, however entrepreneurship and business is also a desire of his. One day Nick decided to drop into Evan Vestals office and ask him more about the ID program and from then on, he was hooked. Nick believes that the family you receive within the ID program is a powerful one, the members and professors of ID aid in learning in and outside of the classroom, he argues that there is no better place to be at Texas A&M. Before he got fully accepted into the ID program, Nick knew PAID was essential for receiving exclusive exposure to industry partners as well as developing the skills necessary for a satisfying career. After his Committee experience, he was elected as the current Information Systems Officer. He has enjoyed his time spent being a part of the Officer team, co-hosting event check-ins, managing the website, and assisting each Officer when needed. More so, he has been most grateful for developing the relationships he has within the officer team, and its members.

Goals
Nick understands that PAID would not be where it is today if it weren’t for the contributions by the students, faculty, and industry partners. As President, he will be most focused on making sure all contributors voices are heard and catered to. Given the opportunity, Nick would like to continue to be a welcoming and warm-hearted figure as President, standing ever ready to assist when needed and conducting himself as a servant minded leader. He would be honored to continue PAIDs impactful vision and its services.

Outside of PAID
During his Freshman year, Nick was a Blinn-TEAB student as well as a member of MSC ALOT. During his time on A LOT, he was a part of the Angel Tree Sub-Committee. As a part of Angel Tree, Nick would speak to other organizations, and recruit people to donate toys or even work the various tables on campus. On top of that, he even completed those tasks himself. He is also a current Brother of Sigma Chi, a Fraternity on campus. He had the privilege of serving as a Scholarship Chair in the Fall of 2020 where he; taught the literature of Sigma Chi, encouraged good study habits, and acted as a tutor when possible. You can find him at the rec center, campus golf course, or even Penberthy, where he loves to live an active and healthy lifestyle.
